

The Best of Walt Disney World Rampage

Comparing my personal picks to the internet's
ELLA KASPEROWICZ STAFF REPORTER

We've all heard of Walt Disney World, the place dubbed to be "the happiest place on Earth." Everyone has to experience that magical feeling when your childhood comes to life, either during a ride or meeting a character, at least once. Personally, Disney is one of my favorite vacation spots. I have been there plenty of times and I never get tired of it. That's why I'm going to rank everything Disney, then see what the internet thinks about my picks.

Magic Kingdom:

Known to be the most popular park, Magic Kingdom is the face of Walt Disney World. It contains Cinderella's Castle, Main Street U.S.A., and all the "lands." In my opinion, the best ride in Magic Kingdom has to be Space Mountain. There are so many good rides, but this one is a classic. It's thrilling and is one of the more fast-paced rides in the park. However, according to disneytouristblog.com, the best ride is Pirates of the Caribbean, with a rating of 10/10. I was close, because Space Mountain came in at second place, with a rating of 9/10. This water ride is based off of the famous movies starring Johnny Depp. It takes you through the story of Captain Jack Sparrow. If you get lucky, on rare occasions Johnny Depp is known to dress up and actually be part of the ride.

Epcot:

This park is especially unique because it features the World Showcase. If you are not familiar with the countries all in walking distance in France, Germany, Norway, and Japan. Each country brings a bit of culture. A fun fact is that the cast members working in specific country. Of course, that means the first choice would have to be Via Napoli, a pizza in Italy. This pizza is one of my favorites, and it is very authentic and original. But, Monsieur Paul in France was ranked number one on thedailymeal.com. This restaurant has a classic but modern look to it that people love. It is also famous for its desserts.

Hollywood Studios:

The purpose of this park is to make people feel like they're behind the scenes in Hollywood. There aren't as many rides as the other parks, but some of the best in all of Walt Disney World belong here. This includes the Hollywood Hotel Tower of Terror and Aerosmith's Rock 'n' Roller Coaster. Hollywood Studios also has very good shows and performances. My favorite is definitely Fantasmic. It is a water show featuring many characters, and tells the story of Mickey Mouse and Maleficent. Muppet Vision 3D took the top spot in disneytouristblog.com's list. It is funny and is good for all ages.

Animal Kingdom:

This park has any animal you can think of, and even gives a tour in the Kilimanjaro Safari. It shows the different cultures of Asia and Africa. My favorite ride has to be Expedition Everest. It is a thrilling roller coaster that goes backwards in the dark. It is one of my top picks in all of Walt Disney World. However, worldclassvip.com ranked Expedition Everest as their number two, and Avatar Flight of Passage is number one. This simulator lets you ride across Pandora and see everything it has to offer. It is very unique, but always crowded. So, make sure to get a fast pass if you're looking to ride this.

All of Walt Disney World is very creative and magical. Each park is perfect for all ages. It is guaranteed to be an experience you will never forget.

My Personal Experience With Disney World

ETHAN CROWELL STAFF REPORTER

I just recently took a four day trip to Disney World, and despite the swampy weather and swathes of smelly people, it was still a great experience, and I for sure would recommend going, maybe even this winter.

For one, the parks are insane. They all have such amazing detail and really immerse you in the setting. My two favorite parks were both the newest in the park: The new Star Wars park, and the Avatar park. The Avatar park opened May 27th, 2019, and the Star Wars park opened even later, August 29.

Both of these parks alone is enough of a reason to go back to Disney World if you haven't been since you were a kid. The Star Wars park, called Galaxy's Edge, hsome amazing scenery, and if there weren't thousands of people everywhere you look, it would actually look like the set to a Star Wars movie. They even dress all of the workers in themed outfits that fit well into the setting, and even a group of storm troopers walk around the park.

The Avatar park, called Pandora-The world of Avatar, was still really cool, but there was significantly less to do. In my opinion, the coolest part of the park was all of the plants and even the ground glow at night, and even react to people touching them.

Overall, I enjoyed Disney, and I'd definitely recommend going. Even though the prices are extremely steep, and the amount of people there can get obnoxious, try and convince your parents to make a trip out there.

Happiest Place on Television

LIZZI MONTANTI STAFF REPORTER

In little more than a day after launching on November 12th, 2019, more than 10 million people registered for a Disney Plus subscription. A subscription costs $7 a month in the U.S., or $70 to prepay for a full year. Each account can stream up to four devices at a time.

Like other popular streaming networks, each member of a household can create their own user profile. Each member of an account has over 200 Disney, Pixar, Star Wars, or Marvel avatars to choose from. Disney Plus also offers unlimited mobile downloads for offline viewing.

Disney Plus offers a library of Disney and Fox's legacy content. They will also produce original shows, documentaries, movies and more.

The most anticipated original is a Star Wars spinoff, The Mandalorian. Since its feature of Baby Yoda went viral, The Mandalorian has been getting a good deal of attention. The series will star Pedro Pascal, a gunfighter, set five years after The Return of the Jedi. Its

Here's Why Disney's Chicken Little Gets Little Attention

What it Takes to be a Disney Villain

MAGGIE ENGLISH
RAMPAGE ILLUSTRATOR
#1 An Amazing Villainous Song

Most villainous songs are full of emotions and heavy beats. This emotional pull intrigues its listener, and also allows the listener to connect to the emotion coming from the villain who is singing it, such as:

- Poor Unfortunate Souls from "The Little Mermaid"
- Mother Knows Best from "Tangled"
- Be Prepared from "The Lion King"
- The Siamese Cat Song from "The Lady and The Tramp"
- Shiny from "Moana"
- Gaston from "Beauty and the Beast"
- Mine, Mine, Mine from "Pocahontas"

#2 Many Layers

Every villain is built with layers. For example, Cruella de Vil is a high-class fashionista, a greedy and merciless psychopath, a wealthy socialite, and she somehow brings different aspects from different worlds in business together. If Disney wanted to they could have simply made her have one aspect to her, but they didn't, creating an amazing Villain to an otherwise peaceful story.

Her obsession to the pattern of the Dalmation's soft white and black spotted fur just builds her character even higher.

exception. The film follows Chicken Little and his friends finding an alien and trying to survive an alien encounter in their hometown. The story is truly bizarre and far from other Disney movies, besides maybe Lilo and Stitch. The characters aren't really memorable themselves except for their design. They each have one character trait for most of the film and then find themselves near the end. It's been done before and this film doesn't do anything unique to that formula.

The overall animation is fine, not the best and not the worst. The film actually

All villains have things that make up their greatness as the Evil one in the tale. Compare her with another Disney Villain and you will find that each villain has their own layers to their story.

#3 Incredible Control

A good Villain has the ability to set the plot into motion and push the main characters forward to face their fears and challenges. But, a great villain is sitting in the driver's seat most of the movie and is constantly having control of the situation at hand.

Let's use Jafar; he is in control from the beginning of the movie. Jafar sends Aladdin into a cave full of dangers and wonders. This act sets the entire plot up for success. But if something is to go wrong with Jafar's plan after not being able to get the Lamp, he can simply marry Princess Jasmine and become sultan.

#4 Psychological Battles

At one point every Villain knows that getting under the skin of the hero is the best way to start off the battle is to hit your enemy where it hurts most. After hitting the place easiest to scar the villain hits them with physical pain. Leaving the hero damaged in both mental and physical aspects giving the Villain the lead. But, every time the hero climbs the hill and beats the villain to the top first.

Scar is a great example of this. He kills his own brother, Mufasa, by letting him fall to his death and than be trampled over by a stampede of did pretty well at the box office, grossing 314.4 million dollars. The film received an overall mixed reception. The film sits at a 37% on Rotten Tomatoes and 5.7 out of 10 on IMDb. You aren't really missing anything if you choose not to watch this 80 minute slog.

When I think Disney, this movie isn't the first thing I think of. It often comes off as "Oh yeah, that was a movie." When you actually think about the movie, some things stick out like some characters and moments. This isn't the worst film of all time, but it surely pales in comparison to other films Disney released.

antelope. Scar then proceeds to make Young Simba believe it was his fault his father had died. Bringing a lot of mental damage to the young cub and leaving Young Simba defenseless.

#5 Scares Kids

To a kid, these villains may look like total monsters and may scare their socks off. Or these villains can fascinate the kids watching them. Most of the time kids see the dark colors, the smug look on the villains face, and the horrible things these villains do. Because of this it frightens the kid.

#6 Their own Design

Each Villain is suited with an outfit designed just for them. An outfit and a weapon of their own making each one strong in their own way. This gives each villain a different feel, and it separates the villains apart from each other. So, every time a new villain is introduced its not rinse and repeat, making for an even better Villain.
